Pinarayi Vijayan
Chief Minister, Kerala

We are living in an era of information revolution. Information is flooding around and is available at the fingertips of even the rural and deprived population. Being the first state to declare access to internet as a human right, Kerala has to exploit its full potential. The Government of Kerala is exploring all possibilities to reach out to the grass root level through e-governance and m-governance to ensure the welfare and development of all sections of our society as well as their meaningful participation.

The Government is also keen on providing correct and detailed information time to time to the public through various means including conventional, electronic and social media. The Government has established fast and effective channels to provide news, videos and photos to the media. We have already initiated steps to facilitate our media to assure a democratic and dignified presence in the Government events and press meets. The Government is also taking care of the welfare of journalists, non-journalists and retired journalists in a big way which also is appreciated by the media community and their unions.

I am glad to wish you all a happy New Year. I hereby present the 'Media Handbook 2019', which is useful to the media, government officials and the public, as a New Year gift from I&PRD. Hope you all are familiar with its mobile app, 'PRD Media Handbook', a smart digital companion.

Pinarayi Vijayan

T V Subhash IAS
Director, I&PRD, Kerala

The Media Handbook is a model and successful initiative of I&PRD, Kerala to facilitate media and to bridge the Government with media as well as public. A mobile app 'PRD Media Handbook' which was launched last year also became a popular app helpful even to Keralites in abroad. When the disastrous flood hit our State during the last September, the app helped several people to inform the rescue team about their beloved ones trapped in the flood and the rescue operators and the media to execute their efforts fast and effectively. I urge all our media friends, officials and social and political activists to install the app so that we can gradually reduce the printed copies of the handbook to a minimum as a green initiative. I appreciate my team for bringing out this edition on time.
